MEMORANDUM FOR BETH MASTERS

THROUGH: JEFF SCHWEITZER
FROM: DEANNA BEHRING
SUBJECT: HIGH-LEVEL VISIT TO CHINA

With the dates of the China (and Japan) trip quickly approaching, we are sending a package of material to help in your planning. Note that we are asking for several things by COB Tuesday, December 13.

First, thank you for your help in securing the participation of Dan Goldin. We have attached a complete delegation list for your information. The Chinese Embassy has asked for c.v.s for each delegation member as soon as possible. We also need the names of any staff members who will be traveling with Dr. Goldin. Please forward this information to me at OSTP by COB Tuesday, December 13. The Chinese Embassy will then send you official letters of invitation you will need to process your visas.

Secondly, attached you will find a copy of the agenda for the meeting in China. I have also sent the Japan agenda, for your information. Please note the date of the Joint Commission Meeting (JCM) in Beijing is Monday, January 16, vice January 17 as originally planned. This means that Tuesday, January 17, will be the day set aside for counterpart meetings and site visits. Any comments should be sent to me at OSTP no later than COB Tuesday, December 13.

We are also sending a copy of Dr. Gibbons' flight itinerary, for your information. Please note that Dr. Gibbons will not be returning with the delegation; he will be staying on in China for travel outside of Beijing. Also note that we will be flying commercial, so book your reservations soon.

On December 19 at 3:00, Jeff Schweitzer will be holding a meeting for delegation staff at State. This is an extremely important meeting; please mark your calendars. We will go over logistics and discuss specific assignments for the briefing book. Please also bring to the meeting a written contribution (a few sentences) for the Joint Communique along the lines of the attached. Finally, we also ask that you prepare a paragraph for Dr. Gibbons to include in his closing remarks, highlighting your agency's key goals and accomplishments. Please contact Doreen Soler at State/OES for the room number and to get cleared into the building. Doreen can be reached on (202) 647-4711.

Jan 4 @ 3:30

We also would like to schedule a delegation meeting, hosted by Dr. Gibbons at OSTP. The meeting, which we propose for the week before Christmas, would include a substantive briefing by CIA and State. I will be in touch with date and time shortly.

John will check Finally, Dr. Gibbons has accepted an invitation from the Chinese Ambassador to the United States for dinner at the Chinese Embassy on January 3. Please inform me whether or not Dr. Goldin will be able to attend no later than COB Tuesday, December 13. As this is at the invitation of the Chinese, no substitutes will be allowed.

Thank you for all your help and patience. Please call me if you have any other questions before our meeting on December 19.

COMMUNIQUE

The United States - People's Republic of China Joint Commission on Scientific and Technological Cooperation met in Washington D.C., on April 12, 1994. The Commission was established by the 1979 Agreement Between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the People's Republic of China on Cooperation in Science and Technology. The Joint Commission Meeting was co-chaired by Dr. John H. Gibbons, Assistant to the President for Science and Technology, and Dr. Song Jian, State Councilor and Chairman of the State Science and Technology Commission of China.

Dr. John H. Gibbons welcomed Dr. Song Jian and the distinguished members of his delegation to Washington, D.C. (delegation lists attached). Dr. Gibbons and Dr. Song highlighted the state of science and technology affairs in each country since 1987, the last meeting date of the Joint Commission. Executive Secretaries from both governments gave a brief overview of their meeting of March 2-4, 1994, in Washington D.C., where science and technology cooperation, including 27 protocols, between the two governments was reviewed and discussed (copy of report attached). Four examples of successful cooperation in agriculture and environmental sciences were highlighted as a means of demonstrating the mutual benefit of science and technology cooperation to both countries. Opportunities for expanded cooperation were presented and discussed, from both governmental and private-sector perspectives. Four illustrative areas were chosen to demonstrate opportunities for expanded cooperation: health (drug development for cancer and AIDS); environmental technologies; energy (clean coal, renewable, and energy efficiency technologies); and advanced materials (high temperature superconductors, rare earth chemistry, and automotive materials). Both sides expressed a desire to advance cooperation in the four areas listed, as well as others.

Symbolizing the importance of the U.S.-China science and technology relationship, two agreements were signed: Annex IX to the Protocol for Cooperation in the Field of Fossil Energy Research and Development Between the United States Department of Energy and the Ministry of Coal Industry of the People's Republic of China for Cooperation Between the Department of Energy of the United States of America and the State Science and Technology Commission of the People's Republic of China in the Area of Clean Coal Technology Utilization; and an extension of the Protocol on Cooperation in the Field of Marine and Fishery Sciences and Technology Between the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration of the United States of America and State Oceanography of the People's Republic of China.

After closing remarks, Dr. Song thanked Dr. Gibbons for hosting the meeting and invited the United States delegation to China for the next meeting.
